DISORDERLY HONGKONG.

HOOIGANS GETTING OUT OF CONTROL.

POLICE FULLY ARMED.

The spirit of hooliganism is now rampant in Hongkong, and attacks on police when making arrests have been so frequent of late, that the police have received orders to go on duty fully armed, day and night. During the past fortnight more than 100 cases of violence have been reported in Hongkong, and in fact, that the Chinese police are said to be afraid to arrest a lawbreaker, while the evidence of the past few days shows that a European police officer does so only at his peril. In view of the recent miniature riots which have occurred in some of the principal streets of the city, however, the police yesterday appeared on duty fully armed, and the following incidents will explain the necessity for the adoption of this course.

On Saturday, as we previously reported, Constable Clark was seized by a mob while attempting to effect an arrest at Cross Street, Wanchai. On the following day a Chinese fire arm was fired from a woman's ear in Hollywood Road, and was subsequently arrested by Acting-Sergeant Atwell. As the policeman was taking his prisoner to the Central Police Station a large crowd gathered, and, seeing the prisoner not to be afraid, attempted to drag him from Sergeant Atwell. The rescue would in all probability have been effected had not the sergeant drawn his revolver and fired two shots in the air. This action, and a threat to shoot anyone who interfered with him in the course of his duty, enabled the policeman to convey his charge to the Central.

Another mob made a demonstration outside the Yau-mai Police Station on Monday, where the police were loudly hooted and jeered. The cause of this was the arrest of a man for attempted snatching. The story is that while four women were walking along Shanghai Street a man attempted to snatch a bag from the wrist of one of the quartette. Another of the women seized him, receiving a violent blow on the face, but the man was eventually arrested and conveyed to the Police Station. A crowd followed, and grow to large dimensions outside the station, and appearances were so threatening that Inspector Kerr promptly called his men to arms. They were soon at their posts, and their business-like appearance appears to have quelled any idea of creating a disturbance which the mob may have had.

The most audacious assault on the police, however, occurred in the heart of the city on Monday night. Near the Central Market a Chinese snatched a foreign cap from a countryman, and was making his escape when a hue and cry of "snatching" was made. The thief was running towards Connaught Road when Sergeant Willis, of the Inspector-General's Department, who happened to be in the vicinity, gave chase. He pursued the thief into Des Vaux Road, where he overtook and arrested him. A crowd, the numbers of which are said to have run into thousands, had soon assembled in the vicinity, and demanded the release of the prisoner. Sergeant Willis, who speaks excellent Chinese, explained why the man was arrested, but the crowd were determined to rescue the offender, and with shouts of "Ts Fankwei" (strike the foreign devil) they assailed the policeman with a shower of stones and bricks, which were procured from a building in course of erection in the vicinity. Other policemen who were doing duty on adjoining beats came to the assistance of their comrade, but they were beaten back by the onslaughts of the mob, and eventually compelled to seek shelter in a bird fancier's shop. But here the brick and stone fusillade was more furious than ever, and the shop was soon wrecked, the damage done being placed at $850. During a discharge of stones Sergeant Willis was struck on the head and his prisoner wrenched from his grasp, and escaped. Constable Singleton, who was standing by him, was also hit on the head with a stone, and one of the forces of the shop received such a severe blow in the mouth that he had to be removed to hospital. Eventually further police came to the rescue of those in the shop but no arrests followed.

CANADA'S ROYAL GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

LONDON, November 21st.

Reuter's correspondent at Ottawa wires that a feature of the debate on the address was the patriotic references of the mover and seconder, and also of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to the honour conferred on Canada by the selection of a member of the Royal Family as Governor-General.

The mover, Mr. Bennett, the member for Calgary, said it was fitting that the Duke of Connaught should open Parliament with a new Government voicing Canada's determination not to tolerate interference with her fiscal independence or a weakening of her ties with the Empire.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in defending reciprocity, said the people had listened to the voice of prejudice and passion and not of reason. The elections had been carried by false pretences, and Canada had lost a great opportunity of strengthening Anglo-American friendship. He moved an amendment drawing attention to the conflict of opinion in the new Cabinet on the question of naval defence, which was of the highest importance to the Dominion and the Empire, affirming that this was contrary to the principles of responsible Government and should not be approved by the House.

THE REICHSTAG DISSATISFIED.

LONDON, November 21st.

Reuter's correspondent at Berlin states that the Budget Committee of the Reichstag has resumed the confidential discussion of the Morocco Treaty. Several members complained of the erroneous statements in the semi-official Press that Herr Kiderlin-Waechter's explanations satisfied the Committee. Herr Kiderlin-Waechter replied that none of the statements emanated from the Foreign Office.

The Committee also discussed the possibility of France employing black troops in a war in Europe. Herr Kiderlin-Waechter said the military aspect of the French occupation of Morocco was thoroughly thrashed out prior to the Agreement of 1909. Referring to the allusion of the speakers to the Sikhs and Gurkhas of India, he said that the Mutiny of 1857 must not be forgotten.

STRENGTHENING MACAO'S GARRISON.

LONDON, Nov. 20.

Reuter's Lisbon correspondent states that the garrison at Macao is to be reinforced by 200 troops from Mozambique, where the garrison will be strengthened by a European company with artillery.

LYONS MAIL ROBBED.

LONDON, Nov. 20.

A robbery of the Lyons mail train is reported. The thieves boarded the train as it was leaving the station, having hid on the roof of a van.

Later they broke in and opened 80 bags, taking all the valuables and also the official bag despatched by the Minister of War.

It is believed that motor-cars co-operated with the robbers.

Latest information from Marseilles is to the effect that the mails affected included a number of English bags despatched for the Far East for transmission by the French packet Caledonian, but the mails via Brindisi and for India were untouched.

The booty is estimated conjecturally at anything from £120,000 downwards. The affair is described as a gigantic coup.

POSSIBILITIES OF INVASION.

LONDON, Nov. 20.

In the House of Lords, Lord Portmouth, raising the question of the condition of the Territorials, asked whether during the Morocco crisis it might not have become imperative to send the whole striking force to the Continent? What would then have been left to repel a possible invasion by 70,000 troops?

Lord Haldane, in reply, stated that such questions should be addressed to the Premier. He repeated that the objects of the Territorial force were its ability to repel 70,000 invaders, and that this was the standard at which they aimed. But the Admiralty now opined that it would be impossible for anything approaching 70,000 men to land in England. There would still be 400,000 Territorials and others available for home defence in the absence of an expeditionary force. That would be sufficient for the duty required, though he agreed that it would be more satisfactory if the Territorials were recruited up to their full establishment for time of peace. At present they were 40,000 or 50,000 short, but they need not despair, for energy and patriotism were alone required to fill the ranks.

HOME POLITICS.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

The papers are full of disclosures respecting the critical periods July 21st, August 19th and September 11th—firstly, the time of Mr Lloyd George's speech; secondly, the outbreak of the railway strike at which time the Morocco negotiations suddenly became acute; and thirdly, when certain naval and military precautions against emergencies were taken.

The disclosures imply that the international crisis was nearly connected with the speedy conclusion of the strike, the initiation of the latter being marked by an immediate hitch in the Franco-German negotiations.

The general effect of the disclosures show that the measures taken by Britain, such as the preparing of the Navy for immediate action and also the preparations for the despatch of an expedition, betokened the gravest anxiety. Consequently Sir Edward Grey's statement on foreign affairs is eagerly awaited.

LATER.

Mr Asquith has stated that the Government is anxious that there should be a discussion on foreign affairs and he will introduce a motion on Monday to enable Sir Edward Grey to open the debate with an explanatory statement.
